Note that the above includes some command-keys that depend on certain applications being installed. If OmniWeb isn't installed, for instance, its command-keys won't be available within Safari.

Custom shortcuts

To set up your own keyboard shortcuts for your bookmarks, quit Safari, open Terminal and type:
`defaults write com.apple.Safari NSUserKeyEquivalents '{"bookmarkName"="keyCombo";}'` where keyCombo is one or more of the following:

|    |         |
|----|---------|
| @  | Command |
| $ | Shift   |
| ~  | Option  |
| ^  | Control |

followed by the desired key. For example, to set up a bookmark called "Foobar" with the shortcut Cmd-Option- C, you would type:

```
defaults write com.apple.Safari NSUserKeyEquivalents '{"Foobar"="@~c";}'
```

If there is more than one shortcut you want to set up, just duplicate the code within the braces. This example would assign Cmd-Option-D to MacDevCenter and Cmd-Shift-M to Macworld:

```
defaults write com.apple.Safari NSUserKeyEquivalents
'{"MacDevCenter"="@~d";"Macworld"="@$m";}'
```

But keep in mind that the MacDevCenter and Macworld bookmarks would also need to exist and point to their respective sites; this line simply sets up the shortcuts, not the bookmarks themselves.
